It is to be hoped, says The New York Press, that in its dealings with the Chicago bankers Secretary Carlisle will adopt a firmer and more dignified tone than he did in his letter to the Chairman of the Boston Clearing House Committee. In that epistle he said:
If all the banks in the country which now hold gold would imitate the example set at Boston the present financial situation would soon be changed, and there could be no doubt hereafter as to the ability of the Government, with the patriotic assistance of the people, to maintain its credit, even under the most unfavorable circumstances.
Such an utterance from the Secretary of the Treasury of the United States is without excuse. The banks of this country were not organized to maintain a surplus in the Treasury; they were organized to serve the business community. It is not part of their duty to go beyond the functions for which they were instituted. The assertion of Mr. CARLISLE that if the banks would come to his help there would be "no doubt" as to the power of the Government to maintain its credit, is in the nature of a totally unwarranted attack on the financial standing of the United States. This Nation is to-day the richest Nation under the sun. Its resources are without limit, its prosperity is on a solid basis of healthy industrial development, and its credit is unequalled in the money markets of the world. The suggestion that the gratuitous aid of the banks is necessary to enable the United States to maintain its credit is preposterous.
It is time that Secretary Carlisle abandoned the attitude of a mendicant, who stands, hat in hand, beseeching the passers by for alms. Such an attitude is insulting to the American Government and the American people.
Meanwhile, in the words of The Kentucky Journal, "This is a Democratic Administration."

THE GAMBLERS

In Stocks Get No Sympathy From Washington.

The Administration Not in Favor of Relieving "Speculators."

Small Bills to be Issued by the Government to Protect the Gold Reserve by Lessening the Demand for Exchange of Gold for Currency.

WASHINGTON, May 5.—The disturbed condition of the market in New York Wednesday and Thursday provoked no sympathetic response from Washington, although, it seems to be a general belief in New York that the administration will take some step to relieve the stress of the situation. It will not be very pleasant news to the market, but nevertheless, it is a fact that neither the president nor the secretary of the treasury seems to be impressed with the notion that the dealers are called upon to come to the relief of "speculators," as those who are affected by the recent sudden changes in stocks are commonly characterized here. An official in discussing this matter Thursday said:
"We can not understand why a heavy reduction in the price of gold, or sugar, or whisky certificates should have the consideration, care or protection of the government. It is a matter with which the government has nothing to do, and the appeal to the government for help will not be regarded."

With the $100,000,000 reserve line passed in safety, there is a feeling of financial security in administration circles that shows itself in the present apparent indifference to the bond question. There is no denying the fact that bonds were thought to be necessary, or at least a strong probability, not long since, and now it is a remote contingency. The gold reserve can be drawn upon for $20,000,000 or $30,000,000 more without evil consequences, leaving the government a handsome and, comparatively, abundant supply for redemption purposes.

All the time there is the expectation that gold shipments will cease and the current be turned the other way. The latest reports indicate a shipment on Saturday next of about $3,000,000 in gold. There was in the treasury Thursday $80,000,000 in round numbers. The gold reserve has been gradually crawling up to the $100,000,000 point, but the threatened shipment of $3,000,000, if effect, will retard the movement. Offers of gold are still being received, but not in any great quantity.

Banks have been complaining of the scarcity of currency of small denominations. Their complaint will soon be remedied, as it is understood to be the purpose of the treasury department to issue notes hereafter of the smallest denomination possible. This plan was first suggested by the treasury department in 1901, and it worked very satisfactorily. Notes of small denomination remain in demand, and the larger denominations are held because they are less easy of distribution. The consequence of the accumulation of notes of large denomination is the ultimate presentation of them for gold.

For some unknown reason there was a heavy issue of large denominations just before the change of administration last March, but the small notes will have full scope to try their continuous circulation feature hereafter.

Also the Judge and Courtroom—Militia Called Out to Quell a Threatened Riot.
JACKSON, Miss., May 5.—Court convened at Brookhaven Monday, and the first business transacted was to indict and jail ten white men for shooting a colored man and burning his saloon some weeks since. Thursday morning a mob of 100 men rode into town and surrounded the courthouse and jail. They were all from the country, armed with shotguns and muskets, and swore they would release every prisoner. An attempt was made to break the mob, but when the gunners appeared the lawyers, witnesses and others were panic-stricken.

For an hour the mob held the courthouse in a state of siege, repeatedly threatening to kill Judge Christian and the officers. Finally the citizens nerved, and arming themselves went to the rescue. The mob fled to the suburbs and fortified themselves in the bush. Sheriff McNair, telegraphed Gov. Stone for guns, and in company with Adj.-Gen. Henry, he went to the scene in person, carrying with him forty Winchester and 500 cartridges. On his arrival there Thursday evening nothing has been heard, but trouble is expected.

SEA SERPENT.

The Monster Killed by Weirmen Near Provincetown, Mass.

He Was Thirty Feet Long, With Huge Head and Awful Mouth.

The Creature Gave His Captors a Hard Fight, but Was Finally Killed and Dragged to Shore. It Was Considerably Injured by the Throwing of Bombs.

PROVINCETOWN, Mass., May 5.—The sea-serpent is dead. That is a monster which in many respects resembles the famous annual visitor at sea-shore resorts, was Thursday killed by the fishermen of the beach. Point Weir.

They went to their traps Thursday morning as usual to remove the night's catch of fish, and were considerably surprised to find that the weir was filled with a huge sea monster at that moment lying quietly on the top. Neither end of the creature was visible, but after waiting a few minutes an ugly, vicious-looking head appeared. The fishermen resolved on the capture of the monster alive, if possible. A running bowline was made and deftly cast, the noose falling over the head and around the creature's neck.

Then began a fierce struggle for the mastery, the men trying to haul the monster out of the trap, and the creature trying to pull the rope over its head. Finally they shot a bomb lance from a whale gun into the creature's neck just back of the head. The lance exploded and broke the bone and instantly killed the fish.

It was then towed to the beach, where the tide ebbed scores of feet. The sea-serpent was shaped like a huge eel, is 30 feet 5 inches in length and 4 feet 10 inches in diameter at the largest point, which is just back of the dorsal fin. The head is convex on the top, the mouth is large and furnished with five rows of sharp teeth, two rows of the lower jaw which fit snugly between the three rows in the lower. Along the back a serrated fin extends the entire length of the body. The skin is entirely devoid of scales and possesses a very tough skin nearly a quarter of an inch thick. Measures will be taken to preserve the head and jaws entire, and the rest of the body will be skinned, as it would be impossible to preserve such a quantity of meat. The monster was properly cured and mounted it will be sent to Chicago and placed in the fisheries building.

A Banquet by the French.
CHICAGO, May 5.—The French republicans gave a banquet Thursday afternoon to the World's fair city in the form of a banquet, at which Camille Kraus, the governor, gave out on the feast of the fair across the sea, was the host, and over one hundred of the leading citizens of Chicago the guests. The anti-slavery war was the subject of the evening, and it is a token of appreciation of the manner in which French exhibitors have been treated by the city of Chicago and the exposition management.

Convict Mothers.
ATLANTA, Ga., May 5.—News was received by Gov. Nathan Thursday of a fifteen in Dade coal mines Wednesday night which resulted in the death of five men, one perhaps fatally. Several rounds were discharged before the mutiny was quelled, and the prisoners in iron.

WORLD'S FAIR.

Unheard of Schemes to Extort Money.

An Extra Charge Even for the Plate Holding the Food.

Twenty-Five Cents for a Cup of Coffee—Preparations Are Being Made to Open the Fair to the Public on Sunday for Sunday Admission Free.

CHICAGO, May 5.—Threatening skies kept the crowds from Jackson park Wednesday, though the roads were in the best condition of any time for the last month, and the exhibits had grown in point of attractiveness under the redoubled efforts of the workmen spurred on by exhibitors. The number of paid admissions at the gates was 16,970 and the crowd was considerably increased by the people who went in through the pass gates.

The church club of the Episcopal diocese of Chicago has asked that the fair be kept open, the Lutheran and Catholic churches favor an open Sunday, and it now begins to look like a fight between the orthodox and evangelical churches, with the public backing the former.

The Sunday-opening question is again monopolizing attention. The national commissioners have practically referred the matter to the directory, which does not meet until May 15. In the meantime preparations to open the gates next Sunday are quietly being made. Tickets for Sunday admission have been prepared, and under an injunction is served on the director general the gates will be open.

The Chicago Evening Post has the problem of extortion figured out to a nicety. Visitors can not get out of the grounds and back on the same admission, and they must either pay the prices charged, bring a lunch or go hungry. One of the many devices is a new appendix to bills of fare announcing coffee to be ten cents per cup and in the opposite corner the brief announcement "Cream, 15c." The customer is asked if he may carry in his coffee. He does. When he pays a cup of coffee costs twenty-five cents.

The dining and kitchens of Vergara were honored with a reception and luncheon at the Washington Park club Thursday. The colors of Spain done in flowers and bunting were festooned over every hand, and the main entrance was decorated with the Columbian, national and Spanish flags. The party was driven out to the club in trolleybuses. The Maryland state building promises to be one of the most interesting attractions in the state quarter. The oyster exhibit, which is the most complete and exhaustive display of the kind at the fair, was completed Wednesday, and in a few days the building will be ready for the public.

Unlike many of the other state headquarters, Maryland's building contains many fine displays.
